Accusation Said Based On Old Facts

NEW YORK (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz' accusation that some 100 million dollars in savings deposits are imperiled by fraud is described by a savings and loan official as a recital of old information.

Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, said in Chicago Tuesday that the California insurance commissioner more than a year ago had seized the California assets of the International Guaranty and Insurance Co. of Tangier, Morocco.

Lefkowitz said jeopardy to the deposits in eight different savings and loan associations not insured by the federal government stemmed from the fact that they were insured by the Tangier firm. The New York attorney general said the International Guaranty and Insurance Co. operates out of a one-room office in Tangier and does not have adequate assets to guarantee the deposits.

In San Francisco Tuesday, Superior Court Judge Preston Devine approved a settlement to complete International Guaranty's liquidation in California. Under the agreement, International will put up cash to pay off all claims in the state.

A statement issued in San Francisco by Henry McGurken, who identified himself as American counsel for International Guaranty said: "International's solvency is demonstrated by its deposit of $177,000 in cash in California to insure prompt payment of all possible claims."

The National League of Insured Savings Assn. issued a statement in Washington today commending Lefkowitz "for bringing public attention to . . . advertising by some five or six small savings and loan associations."

It added: "Unfortunately, however, his comments have created some confusion over the safety of accounts in all savings and loan associations."

"More than 23 million Americans have savings of 48 billion dollars in nearly 4,000 savings and loan associations whose accounts are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., an agency of the U.S. government. "It should be noted that Mr. Lefkowitz is concerned with accounts totaling less than 2-1000ths of one per cent of those insured by the FSLIC."

Car Strikes a Dog, Driver Refused to Stop and Investigate

A motorist driving south on Grand Avenue, in the 1800 block, Tuesday evening gave little or no attention to his hitting of a dog in that block. A report was given the driver was exceeding the speed limit in the first place, and secondly after the dog was struck, never slowed down.

Mrs. Leo Dick, 1804 South Grand, reported the driver never looked back to see if he struck a dog or a child. "The least he could have done was stop and see what happened," she reported. "Acts like that aggravate me," she concluded.

Red Scientists Hope To Photograph Mars

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Russian scientists who succeeded in photographing the hidden side of the moon hope to take close-up pictures of Mars in the near future.

This was disclosed by Leonid I. Sedov, a leading Soviet space scientist, who with three colleagues, exchanged data with state University of Iowa scientists during a visit here yesterday.

Dr. James Van Allen, head of the Iowa physics department, said he learned nothing significant from the visit but called it a good step.

George Ludwig, an Iowa research associate of Van Allen, asked the Russians about the stamina of their solar batteries. The answer indicated that radiation has no harmful effect on the batteries at a certain altitude, a fact that may help Ludwig in future satellite instrument design, an associate said.

Robber Savagely Beats Elderly Doctor, Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Phineas Salzman, an elderly physician who treated the poor without fee was savagely beaten in his lower East Side office Tuesday by a robber apparently seeking narcotics.

Mrs. Salzman was beaten unconscious when she rushed to her husband's aid. The couple suffered skull fractures and were in critical condition at Gouverneur Hospital today.

Police said Salzman, 74, who was retired because of chronic illness but still treated those who couldn't afford treatment elsewhere, was alone in his office when the robber entered.

Mrs. Salzman regained consciousness long enough to describe their assailant as a Negro whose face was partially masked.

Fires In City

The Sedalia Fire Department received a call at 2:08 p.m. Tuesday from the residence of Margaret Bentley, 109 East Jefferson. A fire of undetermined origin caused about $50 damage to a bed and wall in the house.

Other Fires

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a small work shed-garage on the farm occupied by A. C. Abney, a mile east of Hughesville on Route 1. The fire losses were estimated in excess of $2,500 to the building and contents. The fire was about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

In the building was a 1949 Chevrolet pickup truck, and a large amount of tools valued at over $500, besides other farm equipment.

Abney was working in a field near the home and Mrs. Abney was inside the house. A few minutes earlier she had been in the barnyard where she caught two turkeys and then returned to the home. She said she looked out and saw smoke coming from the building and before she got out to it, it was a mass of flames.

Abney hurried to the yard, but the fire had gained too much headway to save anything. An effort was made to drag the truck out, but the fire enveloped it too quickly.

Mrs. Abney called the Hughesville Fire Department and the Pettis County Fire Department, but the building was leveled to the ground before they arrived.

The Oldsmobile, driven by Hazel Willard Wayne, was backing out of a parking space, and the Plymouth, driven by Margaret Hester Ferguson, was going east on Second, according to the police report. Both cars had been moved when the officers arrived.

The left rear fender of the Oldsmobile was damaged, as was the right door of the Plymouth.

Road Gang Escapees Are Re-Captured

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—Three escapees from a North Carolina road gang, wanted for murder of a guard, were captured by Ohio Highway Patrol officers Tuesday night.

Patrolmen closed in from two directions to nab the three men who were stopping autos on U. S. 35 east of here. Officers said the men apparently were attempting to switch cars.

A truck driver saw a car pulled off the road and noted it carried Virginia license plates which he had seen on a wanted notice. He notified the patrol.

Patrol units moved into position, and motorists were warned not to pick up any hitchhikers. Then patrolmen moved in on the trio. Two of the men were in the roadway. The third was in the car. They offered no resistance.

Five men broke away from a road gang near Jefferson, N. C., Monday, fatally wounding the work gang foreman, Fields Absher, 50. They fled in the prison truck. They later terrorized a woman, taking the keys to her car in which they continued their flight.

Three of the men commandeered a car at gunpoint in Beckley, W. Va., Tuesday.

The three men arrested are Tommy Stiles, 27, of Ashville, N. C.; George Brown, 29, of North Wilkeoro, N. C.; and John Alan Henry, of Miami, Fla.

The two other escapees, James T. Waller, 35, and John W. Burgess Jr., 33, are being sought in Mercer County, W. Va. Reports say they may have been sighted in that area.

Need Millions More

Farm Hall of Fame Gets Funds for Site

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Agriculture Hall of Fame, which plans to start construction on a five-million-dollar farm center just west of Kansas City, Kan., in mid-1960, said today it has raised enough money to clear title on the 400-acre location.

"As of the first of January we will meet all bills on the site," Howard Cowden, president of the organization's board of governors, said.

"We will need to raise a million to a million and a half to begin construction," he said, adding: "The way things look now, we will have that, and we are aiming for start of construction in July."

So far, he said, the fund-raising campaign, which has set an initial goal of five million dollars, is "at the half million dollar mark, and the money is coming in better than before."

The drive for donations is going on in 11 states, and plans are under way for fund-raising committees in seven others.

The campaign for funds was held up until after final selection of the Greater Kansas City site Feb. 27 of this year, Cowden pointed out. Since then, Executive Director A. Webster Tenney has resigned and Mel Mains is acting in that capacity. Tenney, who was on leave of absence from the government, decided to return, Cowden said.

He also announced that a meeting of the Kansas fund-raising committee has been called for Dec. 8 in the Jayhawk Hotel at Topeka to make plans for completion of the state campaign by Feb. 1. The meeting was called

Thanksgiving Is A Rough Day In The Foster Home

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jackie Foster turned toward his father today, hugged him and said: "Hurry back, Dad."

Jackie couldn't see tears in the eyes of his father, 28-year-old Eugene Foster. Jackie, who is 7, is blind.

His cancerous right eye was removed at Wills Eye Hospital Tuesday. He already has lost the left eye after cancer struck it at the age of 13 months.

His father was "going away" for at least six months to a year. Suffering from tuberculosis, he left directly from the hospital for a sanatorium in Browns Mills, N. J.

Thanksgiving Day at the Foster home?

"It's going to be pretty rough," explained Mrs. Foster, "especially with Jackie not here and his father going away too."

The Fosters, penniless, went on public assistance rolls Tuesday. Money, coming in from all parts of the country after people read about and saw pictures of Jackie at a premature Christmas celebration last week, will "go into the bank for him," Mrs. Foster said.

The couple has four other children, Debbie, 6; Eugene Jr., 4; Helen, 2; and Michael, 1.

Rev. Bartley Speaks

Optimist and Kiwanis In Joint Meet

A portion of the text of Psalm 23:5, "... my cup runneth over," in which David expressed confidence in God's grace, was the theme of a Thanksgiving message by the Rev. E. W. Bartley before the joint meeting of the Sedalia Optimist and Kiwanis clubs in Bothwell Hotel Tuesday noon.

The speaker who was introduced by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, expressed conviction that many of man's woes would become insignificant in relationship to the many mercies and blessings he encountered if he would count them.

"Ragtime" Bob Darch, of nimble fingers on the piano and witty narrative, who has delighted many Sedalia audiences recently, was introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins. He gave the club members 20 minutes of entertainment which called for encores and a standing tribute.

Invocation was by the Rev. John J. Hansen. Singing was led by Charles Hanna for the Optimists and Abe Rosenthal for the Kiwanians, with Miss Lillian Fox, accompanist.

Optimist President, Robert Lindstrom requested the group to stand for a moment in silent tribute to a departed charter member of the club, Walter Staley.

Announcement was made that next Tuesday the Optimists would hold their annual holiday Ladies Night dinner meeting at the Old Homestead. The speaker will be Ferguson Bell, Kansas City, vice president of Optimist International.

Kiwanis President Sylvan Woolery expressed appreciation for the Optimist invitation to his club members to meet with them. He announced that Kiwanians were invited to attend a meeting of the Warrensburg club celebrating its first birthday anniversary with a dinner at Whiteman Air Force Base at 7 p.m. Monday. It is a ladies' night. Lt. Gov. Lee Comer will be the speaker.

Norman Pitcairn has accepted the general chairmanship of the Kiwanis Pancake Day, January 9.

Guests were: Trebor Tischner, St. Louis, Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins, Bob Darch and M. H. Siragusa with Harry Trotman; and the Rev. Joseph Jakubik, Wichita, Kan., with the Rev. John Hansen.

Some Varied Views About Thanksgiving

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Giving thanks at Thanksgiving can mean gratitude for many things — health, success, peace, love.

To underscore the deeper meaning of the holiday, The Associated Press asked a number of prominent Americans this question: On Thanksgiving, 1959, what are the things in your own life you have most cause to be thankful for?

Thought-provoking replies came from figures well known in government, science, the arts.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist—"I find it impossible to speak of any one circumstance for which I am thankful. There are many to mention, both general and personal.

"In the first place, as a physician, I am particularly thankful for what has happened in medicine during my lifetime in the U.S.A., with the remarkable advances that have come. But I realize at the same time how much more remains to be done, especially with the new challenge to health that in some ways may have been the result of the faulty use made of our prosperity.

"As a doctor, I am also thankful that medical science can at this juncture of world history play such a role in the improvement in the lot of mankind, not only in our own country but especially in many parts of the world where there is still much suffering among the underprivileged. We doctors have the opportunity during the next generation to contribute toward the happiness and peace of the world, not only by our contributions to the health of the body, but at the same time by our efforts to improve mental health and the spirit itself.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon—"Americans have countless reasons to thank God on this day. As I think of the meaning of Thanksgiving, I can't help but find running through my mind the oppressions I have seen on trips to totalitarian countries. I am reminded that all of us should be thankful for something we ordinarily take for granted—the freedoms we cherish in America."

Arthur Godfrey, television personality who underwent surgery for lung cancer last spring—"On Thanksgiving Day, 1959, I am thankful to be alive and healthy."

Nathan M. Pusey, head of Harvard University—"Just as all of us are personally grateful for what school and college training did for us, I believe we Americans should give thanks today that the purposes and needs of education are coming to be more widely cherished and increasingly advanced by the general public.

"On this Thanksgiving Day we must be grateful indeed for the everwidening opportunities open to our young people to attain the higher reaches of learning and make their most effective contribution to the moral and spiritual fiber of this nation."

Henry A. Wallace, vice president under President Franklin D. Roosevelt and now specializing in progressive farming—"I am exceedingly thankful that we have a president who could say at Abilene, Kan., on Oct. 14:

"No other aspiration dominates my own being so much as this: that the nations of the East and west will find dependable, self-guaranteeing methods to reduce the vast and essentially wasteful expenditures for armaments, so that a part of the savings may be used in a comprehensive and effective effort for world improvement."

Clare Boothe Luce, former U.S. ambassador to Italy—"I am grateful that the United States is a land where so many people are so free to make so many choices among so many things and ideas. I am grateful to all legislators who know that their task is the orderly increase of every citizen's area of material choices; to our educators who understand that their task is to form every citizen's mind to make reasonable choices; and to our churchmen of all faiths."

Wernher von Braun, leader in rocket development for the government's space age program—"I feel the meaning of the holiday can best be summed in the following quotation from H. W. Beecher:

"If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but Thanksgiving... - early American Style.

Our forefathers gave thanks for their many blessings, which, however meager, were for them manifold... The right to worship as they pleased... their relief from oppression... the freedom to do for themselves...

In our modern day, we have much to be thankful for... let us not forget to be humble and grateful... And not the least of our blessings, one inherited from the earliest Americans, is this right to do for ourselves!

It was in this spirit that our electric cooperative was created... it is in this spirit that we plan for the future of this Member-owned and operated business enterprise... Stand firm behind your own low-cost source of dependable electric power - your Rural Electric system, owned by those it serves...

American Thanksgiving

As Lionel Barrymore was wont to begin grace at table, in his role of patriarch of the zany family in the movie, "You Can't Take It With You": "Well, sir. Here we are again."

Yes, here we are again at Thanksgiving, this time over 175 million of us, getting ready to sit down with family and friends amid—let us hope for the vast majority—all the good things of Thanksgiving. Food, of course, but also those human ties that can only be imperfectly described by such words as love, sharing, tradition, happy memories, hopeful future.

Here we are again for the 96th November since Lincoln set aside the last Thursday of the month as Thanksgiving Day.

But this custom is not an American invention. Some form of harvest festival is one of man's oldest institutions, which has been observed ever since the first food gatherer paused a moment from his constant toil to rejoice in his plenty.

In modern times, Canada observes the second Sunday in October; Mexico, Dec. 31. In England, a Sunday in the fall is reserved for thanksgiving. The Soviet Union still has its Harvest Day; China, its Moon Festival.

In our own country, Virginians claim that the Pilgrims were anticipated by two years when, in 1619, a band of settlers held a thanksgiving after their landing.

During Colonial days, thanksgivings were held at various times in various communities. The first truly "American Thanksgiving" might be said not to have taken place until 1789, when George Washington, president of the new-born United States, proclaimed a national day of thanksgiving. But it was not until the Civil War that the observance became an annual occasion.

Now, a bountiful harvest is no longer the chief reason we gather together. Indeed, in this country, some find themselves wishing for a little less bountiful harvest.

Now, only a small minority of us are directly concerned with food raising. And abundant food is in the markets, at all times of the year.

Rather, Thanksgiving Day in our time has a broader meaning. It is not just to celebrate the fall harvest of our crops. It is one time in the year when we ponder all the blessings that are ours, all the year round, in this land of America.

Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase: So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst forth with new wine.

Truman Might Have Gone With Ike

By DREW PEARSON

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — I have a strong hunch that Harry Truman would have taken that 11-city trip with President Eisenhower if he had been invited.

I asked him the question pointblank when I saw him in his library in which are housed the papers and mementos of the postwar period which Mr. Truman molded.

"I haven't heard a thing about it," he said in reply to my question.

"I don't suppose you'd go," I suggested. "You never can tell what you'll do when the President of the United States asks you to do something."

He said this with such emphasis that, remembering the many times Truman when president and since, has harped on the obligation of all citizens to cooperate with whoever is president, I had the feeling Harry would have gone along — if asked.

If so, it would have made a more spectacular team than that of Bulganin and Khrushchev when they toured India, Burma, and the middle East laying wreaths, collecting bouquets, and spreading communist propaganda. Truman was busy when I arrived, working with David Noyes and Bill Hillman on the compilation of his papers.

"Those two boys worked with the War Production Board," he explained, "and the full story of what it did in the war has never been told. It was a great era in our history. I have thousands of papers dealing with its work and we're trying to get them in shape to tell the story."

Military Men's Mistakes

I suggested that possibly a defense system under civilian leadership was what the country needed today in order to save money on defense contracts.

"There's one trouble with military men," said Mr. Truman, who has never forgotten a military man named MacArthur whom he fired, and has sometimes disagreed with a military man who succeeded him in the White House. "They're like horses with blinders on. They can only see straight ahead."

"I don't know why, because we've turned out some great minds at West Point and Annapolis," he continued. "But when it comes to civilian problems, the military mind simply can't make decisions."

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: No. 1706 and the "General" — The diesels seem determined to take the romance out of railroading. But they can't do it—quite. A Jersey Central yard engine named merely No. 1706 got bored with going back and forth without getting anywhere, so the story says; and with no one aboard, it started out on its own.

Some 22 miles later, through the crowded maze of tracks on New York's Jersey shore, it was caught at 40 miles an hour undamaged and undamaged by another diesel engine piloted by engineer Chester Gudmunson.

Now "Hogger" Gudmunson is old enough to have seen "The Perils of Pauline" on Saturday nights at the neighborhood Bijou. So he knew about the technique of catching a runaway engine from the back of a galloping cayuse. But he is also a veteran railroader and he knew that cow ponies are scarce around Jersey City anyhow.

Perhaps he or his superiors had read how Confederate Captain W. A. Fuller ran down the stolen locomotive "General" and its crew of Andrew's Union raiders in a wild chase across Georgia from Big Sandy almost to Graysville — 100 miles at least — by commandeering the locomotives "Yonah" and "Texas" in succession.

Anyway, Engineer Gudmunson and the dispatchers got his pursuing engine on the track ahead of 1706; Gudmunson slowed it down and let the runaway bump it — gently, as such things go — then slammed on the brakes, and Fireman Jones climbed aboard and did the hog-tying.

No romance left? Well, Engineer Gudmunson said, "I never want to do it again."

"Some of our worst mistakes have been made by military men."

Truman went back into history to enumerate the mistakes of President Zachary Taylor and other pre-civil war presidents which led to the civil war. He did not touch on current decisions by military men.

Sen. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts was due to see Mr. Truman that morning so I asked him who he favored as the Democratic nominee for president. I didn't really expect to get an answer.

"I'm not saying anything about whom we should pick," he said. "Except that we've got to pick a man who can make decisions. I don't know who he'll be. But I'll be at the convention next summer to help pick him, and I hope the right man will be there too."

At this point Senator Kennedy walked in.

Kennedy vs. Humphrey

In Kansas, where Senators Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota have been pounding the hustings drumming up delegates, it looks as if Humphrey definitely has the edge. Kennedy gets the big press notices, has enthusiastic claquees of teen-agers out to meet him, travels in his private twin-engine Con-ovar with desk and sleeping quarters.

But Humphrey, who carries his own suitcase and catches commercial planes, is penetrating much deeper politically. This is generally true all over the midwest.

In Nebraska, Kennedy caravans toured the countryside in advance of his Omaha rally, drumming up customers for his tea, outdoor barbecue and speech. Afterward, the bill was handed over to the Kennedy family.

In Wisconsin, a small army of teen-agers met Kennedy at the airport recently, whooping it up for the young candidate from Massachusetts. Later it leaked out that Kennedy forces had purchased 500 tickets for the Democratic dinner at which Kennedy spoke. They were distributed to teen-agers for their parents.

For a long time it's been reported that the elder Kennedy, one of the 75 wealthiest men in America, had spent well over a million cultivating the political soil for the handsome, likable son whom he wants to make president. Concrete examples of this expenditure are now coming to the surface in the midwest. Gradually also word of this is percolating to the public.

Kennedy has great charm, a warm personality. Everyone likes him. But in the middle west where the rich political soil is capable of growing heavy crops, the boyish senator from Massachusetts is not taking root. You have the feeling that Jack started too early and is going to trip badly in the final race.

Merry-Go-Round

Real reason Truman and Eisenhower, once great friends, came to the parting of the ways, was Truman's criticism of Ike in 1952 for failing to fix a corridor to Berlin. He pointed out that Eisenhower, then commander in Germany, had been given the job of safeguarding Berlin and failed to get an agreement from the Russians for Allied access to the city. This continues to be one of the basic German problems and is one reason why Khrushchev can now threaten to shut the Allies off from the city. Ike never forgave Truman for this speech.

The Service Man

From living rooms all over the country to missile launching at Cape Canaveral, the electronic service man is indispensable.

It is estimated that these servants of the atomic age will do $13 billion worth of business this year.

When the TV or radio is out of order, the housewife is at a loss unless she has a handy husband around the house. If she does not, then she must call on the special handy man to repair the gadgets that have become a necessary accessory to the American home. Then, there are the vast needs of offices and factories.

The space age has brought an incredible demand for the electronics service and repair men. It has opened an entirely new field of employment for the person whose talents lie in that direction.

The World Today

A Different World for Successor to Ike

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world which President Eisenhower's successor faces in 1961—unless there are bitter changes before then—will be different from the one Eisenhower had to deal with when he took office in 1953.

And it will require different American measures, to some degree and perhaps to a great degree, in coping with the world ahead if only because nations, like animals, are in an evolutionary process.

American foreign policy now is what it has been pretty much back into the 1940s when the cold war began: To maintain alliances and heavy armament to prevent Communist expansion; give American military help and economic aid to allied and friendly nations, and particularly economic aid to the backward ones.

Eisenhower, like President Truman before him, has followed this Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Miss Jane Morey, Sedalia, was appointed as city librarian at Du-luth, Minn. She was formerly executive secretary and librarian of the Missouri Library Association.

1934
The Rev. C. M. Licklider returned from Odessa, Mo., where he had been called to officiate at the funeral of Hilary W. Thomas, well known resident of that place.

1934
C. A. Dinwiddie, superintendent of schools, Versailles, was to join the faculty of Central Business College January 1.

1934
Mrs. Lester Blair, Stein, N.M., was here visiting her brother, Fred Rose, and family on West Third. She was formerly Miss Carrie Rose, Sedalia.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Monday night, Nov. 24, or Tuesday morning, Nov. 25, the Laupheimer building, Main and Kentucky was burglarized and furs, skunk, opossum and muskrat pelts to the value of $1500 were taken. Entrance was gained through a rear door while a watchman was reported asleep in the front office.

1919
Judge D. H. Orear, who resided in Pettis County over half a century, died at the home of a son, F. D. Orear, at Longwood.

1919
J. C. Longan and family, Sedalia, and Mrs. B. B. Roach, Kansas City, motored to Columbia to visit Mr. Longan's daughter, Miss Blanche, a student in the University of Missouri.

No one wants a cheaper car. It's an expensive one for less money that everyone is looking for.

policy. As Eisenhower begins his farewell tour next month to 11 countries, it is doubtful he will propose any changes.

It is too soon in the presidential campaign to tell whether any of the would-be candidates who want his job have any ideas different from Eisenhower's. So far they have offered nothing basically different.

Still, the world is not the same as in 1953 and it will be even more different 10 years from now.

When Eisenhower moved into the White House almost seven years ago there was a war in Korea; Red China was just beginning to be a world power and feel its oats; Western Europe was just getting on its economic feet, with American help. There was no revolt in the Soviet satellites.

The United States was still far ahead of the Soviet Union in armaments, since it wasn't until the summer of 1953 that the Soviets produced their hydrogen bomb. The Soviet Union itself was completely hostile and erratically dangerous.

But now the Korean war is over; Red China slowly is becoming a giant; Western Europe is highly prosperous and able to join this country in helping backward countries. There has been turbulence in the satellites. It may show up again.

Now the Soviet Union not only has the H-bomb, but missiles, too, and is ahead of this country in space development. It appears now to be thoroughly the military equal of the United States.

But one of the most significant changes is the fact that the Soviet Union, under Premier Nikita Khrushchev, is talking peace and economic competition, disarmament and the end of nuclear tests.

This country is trying to reach agreement on both.

If by 1961 there has been some progress on disarmament and the two sides have agreed on a fool-proof inspection system making further nuclear tests unnecessary, then Eisenhower's successor faces another kind of world.

It will be one in which neither side will completely let down its guard or strip itself of the means of annihilating the other if it has to; but a world in which the Communists bloc would be much further advanced in its preparations for competing economically with the West.

There may be no shooting but the Western and Communist worlds will be in competition for the friendship and allegiance of the smaller and backward nations. This is a contest the world faces for years.

In the end the one who wins this one will probably dominate the earth for a long time to come, with communism either waning in its power and influence or the West sliding into a long and fatal decline.

Such a clear victory or defeat for one side or the other is not likely in the next 10 years, but the man who succeeds Eisenhower must, as the drama unfolds, find ways of preventing a Communist victory.

It is possible, too, as the West and East struggle, even though peacefully, that the Soviet Union may move more to the right, the United States more to the left.

It is almost as if the Truman-Eisenhower administrations were a period of stalemate and preparation for a new world, new problems, new policies, which no one right now can confidently predict.

The Mature Parent

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Once, when I was in the third grade, my regular teacher fell ill and a substitute took over our class. We soon detested her.

If she caught us whispering, she'd leave the blackboard, sit down at her desk and say, "Go on. Finish your conversation. I wouldn't want to interrupt such an important discussion for the world." If we mispronounced a word, she'd comment, "Never mind. You read so well you don't have to bother with what the book says." If we were tardy, she'd look up as we opened the classroom door to say, "Good morning. How nice of you to decide to come to school today."

At first her sarcasm merely confused us. Her use of friendly words to express unfriendly meaning was new to us, and we didn't know which to respond to. Told not to mind our reading mistake, we'd smile uncomfortably and blunder on, unsure of whether we'd been approved or criticized.

But gradually, as we became certain of her unfriendliness, we began to resent her fiercely. We resented not her criticism so much as her refusal to put it into honestly critical words. So in open defiance, we finished our whispered conversations and cared less and less about pronouncing the words in our reading. We started taking Miss Hamm at her word and not at her meaning.

Our principal had to find another substitute.

Sarcasm is a dangerous self-indulgence for parents, too.

When we find Gloria's sweater and school books piled on the dining room table, we can't afford to say:

"That's right. Just leave your stuff wherever you feel like it for other people to clear up."

Gloria may also take us at our word instead of our meaning. Angered by our use of permissive words to express our unpermissive meaning, she may choose to ignore our real wishes—and obey the words. She may walk out of the dining room sulky and leave us to clear the table of her belongings.

Like Miss Hamm, we parents resort to sarcasm's distortion of our real wishes because we have poor respect for our wishes. We dare not put them into direct words because we expect them to be disregarded. So certain are we that Gloria will ignore what we want that we actually invite her to do just that. Our sarcasm demands the very opposite of what we really want.

Inductive Detection Gives Clues to Your Ailments

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

In a previous column, I told you how to use the methods of Sherlock Holmes to solve a symptom whodunit. For an example, we took chronic or recurrent headache. And we got rid of a small army of suspects who could establish pretty fair alibis.

Now we're ready to put the major suspects in the "line-up," turn on the spotlights and give them a real going-over.

Headache with constipation. Perhaps "autointoxication."

Sunday morning headache. Perhaps "hangover."

Monday morning headache. Perhaps faked or exaggerated to get out of return to school or work.

Headache between or just before menstrual period. Perhaps water retention with weight gain due to cyclic changes in glandular activities.

Headache in middle of night, wakening you out of sleep. Perhaps eyestrain from prolonged television or reading in bad light.

Headache above one or both eyes, behind one or both cheeks or back of one or both ears. Perhaps sinus infection especially if associated with nasal stuffiness or discharge and if made worse by head-shaking.

One-sided headache with definite pattern and a definite warning signal like spots before the eyes. Perhaps true migraine.

Headache mostly confined to back of neck and made worse or reproduced by pressure on a "trigger area." Perhaps a nodular headache that may be relieved by local injection.

Headache at work. Perhaps due to noise, bright lights, poor illumination, irritant odors, poor ventilation or excessive heat.

Headache when outdoors. Perhaps mild sunstroke, inhalation of smog or tight hat band.

Headache after meals. Perhaps sensitivity to certain foods like milk, chocolate, starches, members of cabbage family. Or sensitivity to gin (Martini) or wine.

Headache after smoker. Perhaps tobacco poisoning or over-indulgence in food or liquor.

Headache due to medicines. Especially sulfa drugs, sleeping pills, appetite killers and preparations for blood pressure reduction.

And many others, too numerous to mention.

Now, while do-it-yourself diagnostic sleuthing won't get you to ride top-speed up and down the hilly streets of San Francisco with sirens shrieking and two-way radio in operation, you will have this great advantage over Sherlock and his many successors: You can repeat the crime and catch the criminal with the smoking revolver in his hand.

All you do is expose yourself to the headache suspect and reproduce the crime. Repeat the test to be sure you've a bullet-proof case. Then, with your doctor's help, you're all set to wipe out the crime wave that was terrorizing your skull area.

Sure Sign of Growing Up: If Child's Hard to Live With

"Are all girls of 15 almost impossible to live with?" asks an exasperated mother.

She goes on to say, "Julie was always such a sweet child. But for the past few months she has certainly been hard to live with."

"You wouldn't believe the amount of disdain she can get into two words. 'Oh, Mother!' And those are the two words I hear no matter how helpful I am trying to be."

"I can't even buy a dress to suit her any more. She has also become very critical of the way I look, the way I treat her friends, and so on. Do you have any idea of what has brought on this sudden antagonism?"

Adolescence, I suspect. Julie is tired of being a nice, obedient, admiring child and is striking out at you in an effort to assert her own individuality.

GOP Official Uses Sedalia As An Example

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Republican assistant chairman Clare B. Williams is telling women party workers on her extensive campaign tour "how they do it in Sedalia" to whip up vote-getting action.

To make certain GOPers were alert, Sedalia "white-coated county leaders, and used doctors' stethoscopes and knee hammers to check Republican hearts and reflexes to make sure GOP legs are ready for campaigning."

The luncheon setting held a flask of multi-colored candies labeled "GOP vitamins, Guaranteed Full Strength."

Sedalia GOP ladies advised these vitamins be taken by "lazy Republican and Independent Voters."

In speeches, Mrs. Williams emphasized that "our political vitamins are the issues guaranteed to cure vote deficiencies."

But Only ONE Does It...
In SEDALIA'S Central Missouri Market!

Of all media claiming coverage only ONE delivers
this important, total market -
The Sedalia DEMOCRAT - CAPITAL does it!

Today Over 95% MORE People
Read YOUR Democrat-Capital Advertisement

...In January of this year, we reported to our subscribers and advertisers that since 1934 our circulation increase represented 88% more reader families. Now, we are happy to report that as of September 30, 1959, that increase has grown to 95% and to 13,464 daily, 13,558 Sundays (September, 1959, Audit Bureau of Circulations net paid average, including 12 bulk, subject to audit.)

We are also happy to report to our Sedalia contract advertisers that while moderate advertising rate adjustments have been made of necessity to meet increased cost of materials and production, today they are paying a lower cost per subscriber-reader reached than at any time since we joined the Audit Bureau of Circulations in 1954. This has been made possible by our steady and important growth in circulation. As an advertiser you buy space to reach Central Missouri customers with your messages about goods or services and today you reach more Sedalians and Central Missourians than ever before when you advertise in the Democrat and Capital.

The map at the left shows the Sedalia area of influence where the great bulk of Democrat and Capital circulation is embedded. Incidentally, nearly one-half of today's Democrat-Capital readers live outside Sedalia, but in Sedalia's drive-in area.

In addition to coverage of Sedalia, every day the Democrat or Capital is delivered by carrier to readers in LaMonte, Knob Noster, WAFB, Warrensburg, Hughesville, Hustonia, Sweet Springs, Emma, Concordia, Marshall, Slater, Nelson, Blackwater, Pilot Grove, Bunceton, California, Clarksburg, Tipton, Syracuse, Otterville, Smithton, Latham, Fortuna, Versailles, Stover, Cole Camp, Lincoln, Warsaw, Clinton, Calhoun, Green Ridge, and Windsor. Many other points such as Ionia, Mora, Edwards, Fairfield, Fristoe, Climax Springs, Florence and Longwood—and rural routes out of all these communities—are covered by mail delivery.

Truly, the Democrat and Capital covers Sedalia's Central Missouri Area. And this circulation is not "thrown-away" — it is audited, paid circulation — papers paid for by people who buy the Democrat or Capital to READ

It is the ONLY advertising medium covering the whole of Sedalia's primary trade area—printing the names and news of Central Missouri people as well as the state, national and international happenings morning, evening and Sunday.

While Sedalians and Central Missourians concentrate their reading on ONE publication — The Democrat and Capital — in contrast at least 17 radio stations vie with one another for the listeners' attention — Sedalia (2), Kansas City (4), Marshall, Clinton, Warrensburg, Boonville, Springfield (3), Columbia (2), and Jefferson City (2) . . . not to mention the St. Louis stations and the many others available by a twist of the dial . . .

. . . and likewise, at least nine television stations vie with one another for Sedalia and Central Missouri viewing attention — Sedalia, Jefferson City, Columbia, St. Joseph, Springfield (2) and Kansas City (3).

Games On Thursday

College Conferences Take Pride in Their Title Races

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four college conferences which take pride in their close and unpredictable football competition, bringing their title races right down to the wire Thanksgiving Day.

The holiday games, dwindling in importance and number in recent years, likely will be deciding factors in the Ivy League, Southern Conference, Missouri Valley and Southwest Conference championships and in the naming of one team for a major New Year's Day bowl game.

If Texas, rated the No. 4 team in the nation in the latest Associated Press poll, can win from Texas A&M Thursday, they'll share the Southwest title with Arkansas and automatically get the bid to play unbeaten Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl.

Texas Christian also can tie for the championship by beating Southern Methodist Saturday, but under conference procedure Texas gets first call and Arkansas second in event of a tie. So TCU also has accepted a bid to play in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Dec. 19, and Arkansas has agreed to play in the Gator Bowl Jan. 2 unless it takes the undisputed title.

In the Ivy League Pennsylvania can complete an amazing climb from its non-winning seasons of recent years to the top of the heap by beating its old rival Cornell. Penn is 5-1 in the league standing and Dartmouth, last year's champion, is 5-1-1. A Penn-Cornell tie would leave them deadlocked, but the Quakers are expected to go all out for a victory over a team that has split even in six Ivy games.

The Missouri Valley conference, like the Southwest, could wind up in a three-way tie—and it appears more likely. North Texas State and Houston have completed conference competition with 3-1 records. Tulsa can join them by beating Wichita (0-2-1) in a replay of last year's exciting game when the situation was reversed. Houston meets Washington State in a non-conference game.

Its a head-to-head struggle between Virginia Military (4-0-1) and Virginia Tech (3-0-1) for the Southern Conference crown on a neutral field at Roanoke, Va. The rest of the Thanksgiving program consists mainly of traditional games with no bearing on titles.

North Carolina and Duke and William and Mary and Richmond meet in a couple of interesting though indecisive Southern clashes. The first is the national TV game of the day, Ivy League Brown plays Colgate in a morning game; Wyoming, with the Skyline Conference title clinched, plays Denver and Miami (Ohio) and Cincinnati stage an inter-conference clash.

Georgia over Georgia Tech; This is the best Georgia team since the Sinkwich-Tripp era. It is a Saturday game.

Duke over North Carolina: Your Thursday TV tidbit. Two teams with disappointing records take it out on each other.

Taking a final, hurried romp over the chalklines:

THURSDAY
Colgate over Brown, Cincinnati over Miami of Ohio, Wyoming over Denver, Penn over Cornell, Richmond over William & Mary, Virginia Military over Virginia Tech, Wichita over Tulsa, Washington State over Houston.

SATURDAY
East: Boston College over Holy Cross.

South: Auburn over Alabama, Florida over Miami, Clemson over Furman, Mississippi over Mississippi State, Florida State over Tampa, Tennessee over Vanderbilt, South Carolina over Wake Forest.

Midwest: Air Force over Colorado, Oklahoma over Oklahoma State.

California Loses To Camdenton Team

Camdenton trailed by a single point at the end of the first half in the opening game in the 1959 Tri-County Conference Tuesday night, but rallied at the opening of the second half to capture a 67-58 victory.

Camdenton won the 'B' game, 40-36.

The Lakers go to the School of the Osage next Tuesday.

Camdenton: Kramer 14, Capps 18, Hunter 6, Green 12, Laughlin 14, Hanks 9.

California: Bowlin 7, Strickland 10, Gates 18, Fletcher 6, O'Neal 9, Hall 4, Flippen 2, Imm-Zerman 2.

Lions Tangle With Packers Thanksgiving

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers, with little to be thankful for, except that the season will soon be over, tangle here Thursday in their annual Thanksgiving Day football game.

A nationwide television audience and a crowd of about 50,000 will watch the goings-on between these two National Football League down-and-outers. Game time is noon (EST).

This will be the ninth straight Turkey Day meeting between the two, and the 53rd time the clubs have tangled on the gridiron.

Not since 1947 have the Packers scored a season sweep in the Detroit series, but they can do it by beating the Lions Thursday. Green Bay won the earlier game, 28-10.

The Lions, who haven't been able to untrack themselves all season, will be trying to bounce back after one of the most frustrating afternoons in their history. They more than doubled the yardage against the Chicago Bears last Sunday, but gave away the ball eight times on fumbles and interceptions and lost the game 24-14.

It was Detroit's sixth loss. The Lions have two victories over the Los Angeles Rams and a tie against Pittsburgh.

The rest of the NFL teams are scheduled for Sunday action. The front-running Baltimore Colts and San Francisco 49ers risk their Western division leads, the Colts entertaining the victory - starved Los Angeles Rams and the 49ers going against the title - hopeful Browns in Cleveland.

Floyd Wants A Fight For Heavy Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson wants a chance to win back the world heavyweight title from Ingemar Johansson and if he has to do it without the support of manager Gus d'Amato, that's what he'll do.

The next move now is up to Johansson—or possibly the courts.

In a telephone interview with The Associated Press, Patterson, who has been training for six weeks at Newtown, Conn., said grimly:

"I want that fight even if I can't have Gus with me."

D'Amato's licenses as manager and second were revoked by the New York State Athletic Commission on Monday, leaving Patterson free to sign for his own fights or take on another manager. D'Amato said he would take court action to have the licenses restored.

Johansson, who has said he preferred to give Patterson the first crack at his title, returned to his native Goteborg, Sweden, Tuesday to consult his adviser, Edvin Ahlquist, and to prepare for a tour of Latin America.

He planned to talk today with Joe Tepper, former executive secretary of the New York commission, who hopes to get his name on a contract for a rematch with Patterson. He also wants to consult "law specialists" about the status of a contract held by Vincent Velella, successor to Bill Rosenzohn as head of the firm that promoted the first Johansson-Patterson fight last June.

The champion has said he wants no part of a fight promoted by Velella and that he doesn't intend to fight in Miami in March. All he wants is a fight with Patterson in an unsmirched background.

The Knob Noster Panthers posted their fourth consecutive win Tuesday night, breezing past the Windsor Greyhounds, 44-35, in a game played at Windsor. It was the first action of the season for the Greyhounds.

The Panthers now sport a 4-1 record. Coach Dwight Hensley's crew dropped their first game this season to Leeton. They will be idle until next week when they clash with a strong Chilhowee five in the annual College High Invitational Tournament.

Windsor was outscored in each of the first three periods and trailed, 33-22, going into the final quarter. The Hounds finally got their offensive in gear, but it was too late. Gary Galloway and Larry Draper led Knob Noster with 19 and 17 points, respectively. Cline pitched in ten for Windsor.

Cole Camp was fighting all the way. Trailing eight to 11 at the end of the first quarter they fought back to score 17 to 13 points to take a halftime lead of 25 to 24. The final two quarters were not too good for the Bluebirds, who were held to one lone goal in the last half and scored their 10 and 3 points on 11 free throws and the goal. The Cardinals sailed in 13 and nine in the last two quarters.

In the volleyball tilt Lois Wenig and Janice Davis shared high scoring honors for Lincoln with seven points each while Sandra Brauer was top scorer for Cole Camp with six points.

Bunceton Stages Rally to Victory

Bunceton, down 35-24 at halftime, staged a blistering second half rally and beat down Prairie Home's upset bid in a Cooper County Conference battle at Bunceton Tuesday night. A full court press in the final two periods gave the Dragons the edge.

Rich Dick was the top scorer in the Dragons, 65-58, triumph with 22 points. Ralph Stegner got 22 for Prairie Home.

Bunceton now has a 3-0 record in conference play and a 5-2 mark for the season.

Wins Over Freshmen

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's varsity basketball team, after a slow start, ran up a 69-51 victory over the freshmen Tuesday night.

Tied for scoring honors at 17 points were Joe Scott, the varsity's long shooter, and freshman Don Wright of Winston.

Veteran Al Abram, hobbled by a knee injury, played only briefly in the last half.

Joplin's Impact on Ragtime Increased By His Influence

By Robert R. Darch

This is where it all began... and these are the legendary men who started it. They called it Ragtime.

The impact of Scott Joplin upon the acceptance and preservation of classic Ragtime as a composer and musician was equalled only by the profound influence which he exerted upon contemporaries whose lives he touched.

During the important years in Sedalia, one such contemporary and protege was Scott Hayden. Hayden was born in Sedalia in 1882 at 133 West Cooper. When Scott Joplin came to Sedalia in 1896, Hayden was a student in high school. He is described by Ragtime historians as "a sensitive and handsome light-skinned boy, slender and of delicate health, with a talent that was markedly melodic."

Joplin, then 26, became Hayden's idol, teacher and close friend. With another Sedalia boy who was to rise to fame during the Ragtime era—Arthur Marshall—young Hayden spent his nights hidden behind a screen in the Maple Leaf Club where Joplin and other syncopated pioneers played.

One of the most melodious of all Ragtime compositions, Sunflower Slow Drag, is a collaboration of the teen-aged Hayden and Scott Joplin. With the marriage of Joplin to a relative of Hayden's, their friendship became even closer. And when Joplin left Sedalia as the gathering places for pioneer Ragtimers closed, his youthful protege followed him to St. Louis, from where the growth of the new music was to continue and flourish.

Lion Hopes For Release From City Jail

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—George, a house-broken, 55-pound African lion, hopes to be sprung from city jail here today. His cellblock mates wish him well.

The nine-month-old cat was booked on an open charge and banded in a cell near the drunk tank Tuesday night.

He got little rest. While fellow prisoners snored uneasily, George paced the floor and wolfed dog-food shoved through the iron bars.

Jailer Arch Downing said first thing he heard of the lion's incarceration was a growl. He looked up from his desk and—shades of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—there stood George.

His owner, Ted Moore, said the trouble with George, an otherwise docile lion, was his size. He asked police to hold George overnight until accommodations could be arranged at the city zoo.

He's too big," said Moore. "He has taken over my apartment and now he has grown too fond of trying to drive my car."

George, explained Moore, is no back seat driver.

"He keeps wanting to get into the front seat," Moore said. "On the way down to the jail he kept getting in the front seat. He honked the horn for 15 minutes. I thought we'd never get him down there."

Moore said he got the animal from the city zoo about a week ago in exchange for much younger lion. After George is safely inside the zoo, he says he plans to get another lion.

"They're fun to raise," Moore commented.

His enthusiasm wasn't shared at the jailhouse.

"I'm glad you came down here and got a picture of that cat,"

Five Felons Flee From Prison Gang

JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP)—"I didn't know they had already killed a man... that he was in that truck out there."

"Oh, if I had known that..."

Her eyes were welling with tears and her voice was trembling as Mrs. Edd Sheets described her brief, unwilling role in the escape of five dangerous felons from an Ashe County prison gang.

She was alone Monday morning with her sick, 6-year-old daughter at their home about 15 road-miles north of Jefferson in the rugged Blue Ridge Mountain country. The daughter was watching a children's television show.

"I had seen the convict truck go down the road. I never do rest until it's gone," said the 32-year-old mother of four daughters.

The truck carried 12 prisoners and three guards to the day's work assignment, a spot in the remote Cranberry Creek section. While en route, some of the prisoners cut a hole through the top of the wire cage.

When the vehicle stopped, five prisoners scrambled through the hole and onto guard William F. Handy as he dismounted. Handy was knocked down and disarmed. One prisoner shot work foreman Fields Absher, 55, near the heart.

Guard Judd Jones exchanged fire with the felons, but one of them held a gun muzzle against Handy's head and ordered Jones to drop his weapons.

"I didn't want to. God knows I didn't want to," Jones said. "But Handy was begging me. He was screaming: 'They'll kill me. They mean it!'"

The seven prisoners who did not participate in the escape pleaded with the felons not to kill Handy, as Jones had surrendered.

The escapees donned the guards' caps and uniforms and ordered Jones and Handy into the truck cage. The other seven prisoners loaded the mortally wounded Absher, a grandfather, into the cage also.

"I saw the prison truck come back and it stopped out front," said Mrs. Sheets. "One man got out and came to our door. He had on guard clothes and I figured he was all right."

Mrs. Sheets opened the door and the man, with aimed pistol, demanded the keys to her 1959 automobile. The five piled into the red-and-white car and fled.

Jones, Handy and the seven other prisoners rushed Absher to a hospital.

"He died before we got there," Jones said. "I don't believe he ever said a word."

The State Highway Patrol, assisted by city, county and federal officers, set up roadblocks in the northwestern section of North Carolina, trying to keep the heavily armed felons within the mountains where escape routes are few. Officers in neighboring Virginia and Tennessee also were on the lookout.

The five escapees and their sentences:

George Brown, 29, Wilkes County, 22-26 years for attempted criminal assault, breaking and entering and highway robbery; James Waller, 35, Gibsonville, 3-5 years for auto theft; Tommy Styles, 27, Asheville, 18-25 years for robbery and larceny; John Allen Henry, 23, Miami, Fla., 10 years for armed robbery; Junior Burgess, 33, Hickory, 25-30 years as an accessory to murder.

Brown, Waller, Henry and Burgess also were serving additional terms for previous escapes.
